Psychoanalytic Perspectives on Race and Difference

Event outline

In her foreword to Fakhry David's book, Internal Racism: A Psychoanalytic Approach to Race and Difference, Ann Scott, writing as Editor-in-Chief of the British Journal of Psychotherapy notes that:

"We live, increasingly, within political and social cultures whose official language opposes racism and celebrates difference. At the same time racism - whether individual or institutional - continues to exist, and its effects continue to reverberate, in subtle and more obvious ways."

This half day event provides an opportunity to engage with the complexities of racism from the intensity of the consulting room, the interactive spaces of group relationships and through the prism of psychoanalytic writing and contemporary public discourse. Fakhry David takes us into the realms of internal racism which operates unconsciously and which in his view is "a universal component of the mind in *both parties. Julia Fabricius will present a paper as discussant to further inform exploratory discussion.
